Announcement Is Made at Illustrator's Studio. Where She Has Lived

Christy's Ward

Is Married to

John Harriman, of New York City, and Alice A. Laidley, of Chicago, last night announced their marriage, which took place at Port Chester, N. Y., on August 12. Mr. Harriman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman, 142 East Fifty-fifth Street, and a second cousin of the late E. H. Harriman, His bride is the daughter of Mrs. E. S. Laidley, of Rogers Park, Chicago, widow of William H. Laidley, former banker of that city, and a ward of Howard Chandler Christy, the illustrator. Both are nineteen and prominent

Announcement of the wedding, which was held quietly more than two weeks ago, was made by the couple in person at the studio of Howard Chandler Caristy, in the Hotel des Artistes, 1 West Sixty-seventh Street. Miss Laidley has resided with the Christys for the last two years while engaged here in the study of the piano and dancing. It was during an afternoon party last spring, when Mr. Harriman went to the hotel pool for a swim as the guest of Mr. Christy, that the young couple Groom's Parents in Mourning night that the wedding had been held quietly both on account of their youth and owing to the fact that the Harrimans were still in mourning for Frank Carley, Mrs. Oliver Harriman's father, whose death occurred last May.

Two weeks ago last Saturday the young couple motored to Port Chester, they said, and were married by the Rev. Stanley Kilbourne at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The witnesses were Mr. Harriman's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carley jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla. They returned to New York for a lew days and then eft for a short wedding trip to the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Harriman, at Mount Kisco, N. Y. The wedding was held with the full consent of the parents of both Mr. Harriman and Miss Laidley, it was said, though they were not present.

Mr. Harriman was being tutored last all for entrance to Princeton University this year. When he met Miss Laidley this spring he received the consent of his parents to get married quietly and enter Princeton as a student in the fall, he said. Instead, he said last night, he and his bride will ge South for the winter, probably to Palm Beach, after which he will engage in business with his uncle, Frank Carley jr., who is interested in Florida development.

Syracuse dispatches said the body had been in the water ten days. It was identified as that of Lancaster, but man's relatives insist he spent the week-end in Peekskill. It is a case of mistaken identifies her. mistaken identity, they say.

General Weather Conditions

WASHINGTON. Aug. 28.—The disturbance over the Caribban Sea was central and the Christys had known one another for a long time. Mr. Christy, she said, had made several sketches of her, but she had never been a professional model. She is still interested in her music and in bellet dancing, which she says she will continue to study.

BOOK NEWS The Bookman's

Guide to Fiction The Bookman presents each month tabloid reviews of a selected list of the new fiction, including the books most in demand. The list which appears in the September Number is reprinted herewith, together with the prices of the books. Write or telephone The Book Store your order for any of the following:

The Isle of Seven Moons—Robert Gordon Anderson. Adventure, troasure hunting and love, with a Caribbean setting. $1.90.

In the Days of Poor Richard-Irving Bacheller, Lovable old Ben Franklin stalks philosophically through this tale of love and history—well Americanized, $2.

The Breath of Scandal—Edwin Balmer. A maiden, finding the worm of reality eating into the apple of exaggerated idealism, sickens at first and then changes her diet. $1.90.

The Mercy of Allah—Hilaire Belloc. A guaranteed smile provocative which is a genuine satire directed against generally accepted business immoralities. $2.

*Mr Prohack—Arnold Bennett. The complete Arnold Bennett, middle-ased philosopher, humorist and expert on the subject of women. $8,...

The Promised Isle—Laurids Bruun, translated by David Pritchard. More of Van Zanten, but this time with days not so happy. $2.

The Head of the House of Coombe-Frances Hodgson Burnett. Weaving, as is her wont, satisfying Victorian romance, this author again pictures London society as it may be. $2.

Robin—Frances Hodgson Burnett. The Head of the House of Coombe is again pushed through a world of sticky sentimentality. $2.

The Flaming Jewel—Robert W. Chambers. Adventurous melodrama of the Adirondack country which, Mr. Chambers mays, "it amused me to write because I have a home there." $1.75.

The Vanishing Point—Coningsby Dawson. Reckless remance and daring deeds. Dawson in an adventurous mood, but still capable. $2.

The House of Adventure — Warwick Deeping. Simple loves and hates at work rebuilding devastated France. Rather delightful.

An able study of youth, seeking ideal love, entangled in the cruelities of an unusual marriage and its resulting jealousies. $2.

*The Beautiful and Damned—F. Scott Fitzgerald. A bitter indictment of a certain portion of the Younger Generation. It might almost have been called "Drink and Marriage." $2.

A Son of the Sahara—Louise Gerard. A distant relative, doubless, of the Shelk. $1.76.

The House of Mohun—George Gibbs. A society melodrama said to explain the flapper. Vivid, but unconvincing. $2.

Saint Teresa—Henry Sydnor Harrison. What may happen when an idealistic but successful business woman's will clashes with masculine and opposite opinions. $2. *Maria Chapdelaine — Louis Hemon. Canada becomes the scene of a beautiful, quiet, satisfying idyl, instead of the usual thundering romance of the red blood school. $2.

School. $2.

Cytherea—Joseph Hergesheimer. A novel with a skillfully contrived background and one exquisite piece of character drawing. Savina, at least, is a real person. $2.50.

A Vagrant Tune—Bryan T. Holland. An elderly love story, an episode which Mrs. Oaskell neglected to include in "Cranford," la here added by her grandson. $1.75. *The Covered Wagon—Emerson Hough.
A wall told tale of colonization, scouting and adventure which ends with a proper embrace. $2.

*Abbe Pierre—Jay William Hudson. A whimsical French abbe tells a quaint and modern romance in his own delightful manner. $2.

The Shelk-E. M. Hull. Strong passion for those who have been loved weakly or not at all. 75c and $1.90.

Indian Summer - Emily Grant Hitchings. A mixed assortment of love affairs with the principals in all ages and of all emotional capacities. $2.

*If Winter Comes—A. S. M. Hutchinson.
The well written study of a misunderstood man in which you are likely to recognize yourself. $2.

Simon Called Peter—Robert Keable. The stands of an army chaplain detailed vividly.

The Whelps of the Wolf—George March.
A dramatic marrative of the Hudson Bay region. With snow and pelts, four wolf dogs, and a worth while French Canadian here, the book achieves genuine atmosphere and distinction. $1.75.

Brass—Charles G. Norris. Though some call it 'the Great American Novel of marriage," it does not prove the greatness of the wedding ring. $2.

"Certain People of Importance Valley."

*Certain People of Importance—Kathleen Norris. After a slow start, this realistic and detailed study of four generations of an American family reaches artistic pro-trimmings familiar to readers of women's magazines. $1.75.

Lucretia Lombard—Kathleen Norris. A conventional love serial with the usual trimmings familiar to readers of women's magazines. $1.75.

Claim Number One—George W. Ogden. A government land drawing in Wyoming leads a motley group of would-be homesteaders into a complication of graft, love, alibis, and ambitions which speed to a novel climax between Claim Number One and Claim Nine Hundred Five. $1.50.

The Great Prince Shan—E. Phillips Oppenheim. International intrigue as it may be woven in 1934. Sufficiently mysterious to puzzle and allure. $2.

Kimono—John Paris. Some subtietles of sex. not too subtily displayed sgainst a Japanese screen. $2.

All the Way by Water—Elizabeth Stancy Payne. A diluted mystery about a grid with red hair and nothing much under it. $1.75.

The Moon Out of Heach—Margaret Pedler. The condicting claims of two men on a girl, which may be read while bathing $1.00.

Vandemark's Felly—Herbert Quick. A mellow chronicle of colonization, adventure, and love. Jake Vandemark's autobiography. Most men will like Jake, 82.

Man-Size—William MacLeod Raine. Another romance of the great north. Better than some such yarns—"yayns" is the word. $1.75.

The Shorn Lamb—Emma Speed Sampson, Lightly amusing negro child combination to be taken with no mental exertion. $1.75.

The Secret Piaces of the Heart—H. G. Wells. H. G. gives his own ideas about novel. $1.75.

That the dinner sets would be of the best American china and porcelain and of the best English semi-porcelain was, of course, to be expected in such a sale as this. But, read on-

Some sets of the finest English bone china from England's greatest potteries are in the English group. If we were to tell you their names you would scarcely believe us, for, you would say, "Such china as that cannot be a part of a Sale."

And French China

Theodore Haviland-a prince of French potters-is the maker of many of the choicest French china dinner sets. Other great French namesnames to conjure with-are to be read on the bottoms of the pieces of magnificent sets, all a part of the Sale.

Ten Original Designs

To make perfect the picture of this sumptuous September offering we are including in the Sale dinner sets by one of the best Limoges potters, decorated with ten abso-Limoges potters, decorated with ten absolutely new and widely varying designs, of our exclusive use. For over two years our expert worked on them with the French potter. And fine, indeed, are the results of their study and experimentation. For amongst these ten designs you will find a wealth of beautiful floral figures in wonderful colorings and a splendor of decoration of encrusted gold and of raised gold paste.
